████ keeps the █████ show on the road all year round, in the covering barn through the breeding season, at the sales and in the paddocks. All done with good humour. █████ is both very well respected and extremely well liked, and █████ is very lucky to have him. █████ was at █████ for a year in █████ and then went on to The Irish National Stud Course, where he was selected for the █████ Award. Following that, aged just █████, he was assistant to █████ █████ for two and a half years before moving to Australia for a year, working for █████ █████. He returned to █████ in September █████. As █████ █████ █████, █████ has many roles, from feeding horses, monitoring injuries and ailments, overseeing movement and transport, daily care, liaising regularly with Stud Manager █████, █████ █████, office staff, vets and outside owners and breeders. He also supports his colleagues on an hourly basis – he helped set up the apprentice scheme for █████ and is supervising his development, taking on an obvious leadership role. █████ also helped manage █████ first consignment of yearlings at public auction for 12 years at the Tattersalls Book 2 and 3 Sale, offering 20 youngsters, including a █████ colt sold for 1,000,000gns. █████ also oversees the daily care of █████ himself, a huge responsibility given how valuable the Gr.1-producing first-season sire is. █████ enjoys challenging himself, whether that be physically or mentally. After spotting a road bike unused at █████ early this year, he decided to train for a triathlon. He completed his first in █████ in March and then did two in one day at █████ – though it might have been unwise to eat burger and chips in between. █████ buys a few mares himself for breeding and sold a yearling at Doncaster this autumn. He has owned horses with friends in the industry, including dual winner █████ with close mate and trainer █████ █████. A proud █████, █████ enjoys playing cricket, football, running etc and also wants the unofficial title of social secretary off █████ – to be fair, he was instrumental in arranging a summer cricket match versus █████ and was the selector for our 11-strong crew at the Great Racing Welfare Boat Race in September. █████ lives on the stud with partner █████ and rescued dog █████.
